To Whom It May Concern:

For the past twenty-five years, Marc Lewis has done an excellent job supervising the rentals of thousands of Manhattan apartments for my company, Mautner-Glick Corp. Marc pays attention to the details and always runs a well organized office with a staff of experienced, knowledgeable and well trained professionals. Marc has now formed a new rental department at Century 21 New York Metro that has continued to rent the bulk of our vacant apartments while providing us with well-screened and highly qualified tenants.

During all of these years the real estate market has gone through a number of cycles and changes. Through the good times and the bad times Marc has proven to be a great asset to my company and to me personally. Marc's vast knowledge of the Manhattan rental market, regulatory issues and real estate in general is unsurpassed in the industry. He has helped me in my decision making process on asking rents as well as what building improvements and apartment improvements to make in order to maximize our rental income. This expertise combined with the high quality tenants that his companies have always provided makes the operation of a large management office that much easier.

It is my great pleasure to offer my highest possible recommendation of Marc Lewis and his entire staff at Century 21 to building owners and apartment owners who are looking for the right broker to rent or sell their apartments.

Sincerely,

Randy E. Glick - President
